The Make Adjustments tool lets you make changes and adjustments to your image or layers. It's located on the bottom of the Tools panel in the menu. To toggle it on, click the gear icon in the lower-left corner of the menu bar and select the _Adobe Photoshop CS6 & Elements_ icon, as shown in Figure 4-4. 10. Click on the top of the Make Adjustments tool to select the Adjustment Tool, as shown in Figure 4-5. The Adjustment Tool has an array of options at its disposal to help you make changes to your image. 11. Now double-click on the Adjustment Tool in the Tools panel to open the Adjustment dialog, shown in Figure 4-6. The Adjustment dialog, which helps you make changes to your image, is a window that sits atop the Layers window when you have more than one layer open. 12. The presets that appear here are placed in sections: Brightness/Contrast, Levels, Curves, Black Point, White Point, Hue/Saturation, Hue/Saturation, and Gradients. Let's put the Levels preset to work by clicking on it in the Adjustments panel and moving the slider to the left, as shown in Figure 4-7. The Levels tool allows you to make adjustments to your image that can be seen across all the layers in your image. Click on the slider to drag it where you see it in Figure 4-7. 13. Now click on the New Layer icon. You have created a new layer named _New Layer_ at the top of the Layers palette. The new layer is shown highlighted in yellow in the Layers palette. 14. What's New in the?

Well this one really came out of left field, I've been noticing that my PC (Dell XPS7, Win 7 SP1 32 bit) hangs really frequently lately and I've been looking into it and trying to figure out what is the problem. A few weeks ago I started noticing that it hangs a lot whenever I'm using Internet explorer. By "a lot" I mean that it will hang often, more than once per day or even more than twice and the only way I can get it to un-hang is by restarting my computer. When I'm using my pc for work which has nothing to do with the Internet it works fine but when I'm surfing the Internet or using apps like Photobucket, Hotmail, Windows Live Mail etc. it hangs on me again and again. I've tried in Safe Mode, I've tried to delete the registry and I've even checked for update on my PC through Windows Update and I've done a System Restore too but it won't work and I'm getting pissed off. I looked around on the net and all over Google and every single person I came across has the same problem which is fine by me but the problem is that none of them seem to have a solution to it. So I decided to write this post to see if anyone out there could help me. The problem isn't that bad that it deserves a fix. I've attached screenshots of the problem and just the way it behaves when it hangs. Since this is a compaq computer I've been removing any drivers and components until I've found the problem. One thing that I tried a while ago and which didn't work was to disable the my location, my files, my time zone, my right mouse click, my keyboard, and my mouse settings and it only made the problem worse. Still I keep trying. So any ideas, any help in this matter will be highly appreciated. screenshots --JERRY.XGEN PROBLEMS SOLUTIONS AND UPDATES Posts: 157 | Registered: Apr 2008 | From: USA KatzEye$ 37769Member # 37769 Posted: 10:44 AM, July 1st (Thursday), 2008 The causes of hang or crash are many. In the action-packed Top 7 Games of 2010, PC Gamer's editors evaluate the best games available for the platform. Each game is evaluated across the following categories: Design, Gameplay, Graphics, Sound and Visuals, and Value. In the final score, each of these categories is weighted equally, but some are given greater value than others. Each game's score is determined by the total of the weights in the category criteria. For example, the weight for graphics is twice that of sound. PC Gamer's scores for each game are based on a 6 to 1 scale.
