Warp to distort an image and can be used to create a stylized graphic. Photoshop Brush Tutorials teach you how to make the best use of your Photoshop brushes. Brush Settings Options: A majority of Photoshop brushes can be customized to fit the style of your project. Luckily Photoshop comes with a vast palette of options to choose from. Here are some of the most common brush settings options: Brush Style: Each brush can be one of 16 different styles. To access these styles, click on the Tool Options button on the lower right of the brush. You can then scroll through the list of brush settings. Thickness: Controls the amount of pixels that the brush strokes are made up of. Brushes with thicker pixels are more precise. You can adjust the thickness of your brush here. Hardness: Controls the strength of the brush. If the brush is too soft, the pixels will look too small. If the brush is too hard, the pixels will look too large. Opacity: Controls the color of pixels that are brushed. You can change opacity here. Flow: The amount of pixels in the brush. Contour: Controls the outside pixels of the brush. Diameter: Controls the inside pixels of the brush. How to Blur an Image: Blurring images can help by reducing noise in the image. Most of the time, you'll want to use the Gaussian Blur filter as it gives you the most control over the amount of blur in the image. Here are the basic steps for using Gaussian Blur. Open the Blur Tool. You'll notice some blur options in this window. Select either a sigma value or radius. The sigma value (or radius) controls the thickness of the blur. By increasing or decreasing the sigma value (or radius), you're blending pixels together to remove noise. Click once to apply the blur. You'll notice an effect on the image. Photoshop also gives you the option to have a blurred and un-blurred version of the image. How to Remove a Pixel From an Image: Pixel removing tools are useful for removing pixels from an image. The method works by selecting pixels that you wish to remove. It doesn't matter whether the pixel is located in an area that's perfectly transparent or black. The only thing you need to do is select the pixels you want to remove. Open the Spot Healing Tool. Click to select the pixels you want to remove.

1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to a rotary developing device of an image forming apparatus for forming an image by developing an electrostatic latent image formed on an electrostatic latent image support member, and more particularly to a rotary developing device having a roll or belt in which at least a developing portion having at least one developing agent, an image support member, a charging device and the like are integrally rotatably arranged. 2. Description of the Prior Art In the conventional development, an electrostatic latent image formed on an electrostatic latent image support member is developed with a two-component developer having at least toner and carrier, the developer is supplied onto the latent image support member by means of a developing device, and the latent image is thereby developed. With the recent widespread use of color copying machine, a color image forming apparatus of a structure in which a photosensitive drum, an intermediate transfer member and the like are used as electrostatic latent image support members, and a primary charging member, a primary developing device and a primary transfer member are used as developing means and primary transfer means and a secondary transferring device is used as secondary transferring means has been employed. FIG. 7 shows an example of such a color image forming apparatus. With this apparatus, a primary charging device 52, a primary developing device 54 and a primary transfer device 56 are disposed around a photosensitive drum 51, a secondary transfer device 56 is disposed around an intermediate transfer member 55, and a developing device 58 is disposed around the intermediate transfer member 55. A primary exposing device 57, a secondary exposing device 59 and a color separating device 60 are disposed around the photosensitive drum 51. The color separating device 60 comprises six developing rollers 61-66, a primary transfer roller 68, a secondary transfer roller 69 and an intermediate transfer belt 61. The primary transfer roller 68 and the secondary transfer roller 69 are mechanically operable and move synchronously with each other in the form of rollers, and the intermediate transfer belt 61 is a belt. The developing device 58 comprises a primary developing roller 57b and a primary developing sleeve 57a, and the developing device 58 further comprises a primary transfer device 59a disposed around the primary developing sleeve 57a and a secondary developing roller 59b disposed around the primary transfer device 59a. The primary developing sleeve 57a is rotatably supported by a rotation shaft 57c, and the primary developing roller 57b and the secondary developing roller 59b are arranged around the primary developing sleeve 57a
